I have in my possession the oldest known periwinkle in Fayette County, although it is not a native of this county.

This periwinkle shell nearly an inch in length and two-thirds of an inch in diameter at its thickest point, is a littorina of pre-glacial origin, and that means it is anywhere from 35,000 to 50,000 years old.

Strangely enough this little periwinkle of ancient vintage tells me among other things why it is so difficult to obtain an adequate water supply in the Wilmington community, where a new water plant must be established to supply that city.

The periwinkle I have is a native of Clinton County, although I do not doubt that there are many of them reposing on top of the Niagara limestone 80 to 160 feet below the surface in Fayette County.

This particular and intensely interesting periwinkle shell, part of which seems to have fossilized, came from a 234 foot well drilled on the premises of Mrs. Helen Haines at the old Gallup School building located on the north side of the CCC Highway, a short distance west of Wilmington, and was brought to the surface by the bailer while Harry Parrett, this city, and Sam Mercer, of Sabina, were completing the well for Mrs. Haines some weeks ago.

Whether this particular shell is of the species taenioglossa gastropods or littorina littorea, I do not know, but this I do know: The shell was found far below the point where heavy layers of stone are normally found in well drilling, and could have reached there only in glacial drift that filled a pre-glacial valley or ravine to a depth of more than 250 feet.

As a matter of fact the drill penetrated nothing but sand, clay and gravel to reach the unusual depth and bring in a water supply that arose 135 feet in the well.

This means that there is probably no water supply of consequence available in that vicinity for a depth of nearly 125 feet, and the old valley or ravine may be acting as an underground drain for the Wilmington area.

Apparently there is a break in the rock strata in central Clinton County that releases the water supply for 100 feet or more below the surface.

It is the first time the Parrett-Mercer drilling has brought to light a shell from far below the surface, and apparently the periwinkle has changed little during the interval of 35,000 to 50,000 years, and greatly resembles some of the more common thick, sea periwinkle shells of the present day.

GERMAN CIVILIANS HIDING IN MINES

300 Feared Decapitation When Americans Came

PALENBURG, Germany, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lt. Glenn Poppe of Mason (Warren County) O., was one of the first American soldiers to enter an ill-lit tunnel of an old coal mine near here where 300 men, women and children lived like caged animals, waiting to see whether their American captors would behead them, as they had been warned.

Poppe was one of the men who accidentally discovered the shelter while taking cover from enemy artillery.

The people knelt, begging to be spared.

The refugees will remain in their coal-mine shelter until it is safe for them to return to their homes. Meanwhile sentries stand guard at the mine entrance.

WILLKIE IN HOSPITAL WITH THROAT INFECTION

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie is suffering from a severe throat infection and a "slight congestion of the lungs," his physician, Dr. Benjamin Salzer said today, adding that a throat specialist and heart specialist had been called into consultation. The 1940 Republican presidential candidate entered a New York hospital Sept. 6 for a physical check-up and a rest.

OUTER DEFENSES OF JAPS BOMBED

'Suicide Boys' Blast Oil Center on Borneo Again

By LEONARD MILLIMAN (By the Associated Press)

Aleutian-based bombers swept to within 310 miles of Japan in their deepest strike at the Kurile Islands, a Tokyo broadcast reported today in the wake of the second devastating American blow at one of Nippon's greatest gasoline production centers.

Domei news agency said 12 Liberators attacked Kita Island in the Kuriles twice Thursday morning. It said two were shot down in "a fierce air battle."

Kita is a pinpoint island 90 miles closer to Tokyo than any target previously hit on the northern road to Japan. No land-based bombers except Superfortresses have been closer to Japan. The distance from the Aleutians rivals the 2,500 mile round trip flight made by Southwest Pacific Liberators hammering at Balikpapan.

"Suicide Boys" Do It
Force returning Tuesday from the second mass raid on the Borneo oil center said they "bombed the hell out of Balikpapan," despite a vicious Japanese defense.

Seven Liberators and at least 19 Zeros were shot down in an hour long air battle between about 40 unescorted bombers and an equal number of interceptors. Anti-aircraft gunners, directed by a Japanese bomber that flew in ahead of the Americans, put up the heaviest flak encountered in the Pacific war.

The attack was the most costly Liberator raid in the Southwest Pacific. Nevertheless, it was a success, said Maj. Gen. St. Clair Street, commanding the 13th Air Force. He added, "It took every bit of our skill, courage and ingenuity."

Racial Equality Demand Is Passed Up By Chinese

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Chinese delegation at Dumbarton Oaks was accepted without change, it was learned today, the blueprint for a world security organization drawn up by Britain, Russia and the United States in the first phase of the conference. The final session is expected to be held tomorrow with the resulting document scheduled to be made public next Monday.

"The main questions dealt with were:

1. Assurance that quick international action would be taken to eliminate any threats to world peace without time-wasting debate.

Crisis Near in Balkans

Russian and Yugoslav Forces Are Closing in on Belgrad and Increase Pressure on Hungary While British Invasion of Greece Threatens To Cut Off Escape of Germans

(By the Associated Press)
Russian and Yugoslav troops fought the Germans in the outskirts of Belgrade today and front dispatches indicated patrols had crossed to the south bank of the Danube from captured Pancevo, less than nine miles from the capital.

It was believed troops of Marshal Tito's Army of National Liberation would be the first formally to enter the fortified old city of 267,000.

Pravda said other Allied Slavic troops had reached the vicinity of Nis, 130 miles southeast of Belgrade, where the Belgrade-Athens-Salonika and Belgrade-Sofia railroads meet.

In northern Yugoslavia along the Tisza River, other Russian troops were less than 30 miles away.

LONDON, Oct. 6.—The Paris radio said today that Marshal Tito, Yugoslav leader, has arrived in Moscow to talk with Marshal Stalin.

across flat Hungarian frontier country from the second largest Hungarian City, Szeged, imperiling frontally from Romania as well. The conquest of Hungary was declared in Russian newspapers to be the first priority objective of Russian strategy.

"The Red army is clearing its way to Budapest by fire and sword," Pravda announced. "Hungary protects the Germans' southern flank and continually supplies cannon fodder. The loss of Hungary would mean loss of raw materials such as oil, metals and foodstuffs." Szeged is 96 miles southeast of Budapest.

Thousands of Partisans inside Belgrade were reported armed and ready to give blow for blow in the forthcoming battle to end the reign of terror under which the Germans have held the capital for 42 months.

Except for reporting patrol activity, Moscow communiques remained silent about any action elsewhere on the eastern front. Berlin has reported beginning of a new Russian offensive in western Lithuania and invasion of the Baltic island of Saare.

Conquest of Greece
British invasion troops in Greece striking along the north shore of the Peloponnese from captured Patrai, have overwhelmed the fortified port of Rion guarding the narrow entrance to the Gulf of Corinth. Allied headquarters announced today.

Enemy security battalions have surrendered at a number of other points in Greece, a communique said. Fifteen hundred prisoners were taken at Patrai alone.

Immediately after seizing Rion, seven miles up the coast from Patrai, the British turned enemy coastal guns captured there against large numbers of small craft in which the Germans were trying to flee northward across the Gulf of Corinth. An official statement said good results were obtained in the shelling.

German guns at Andirion, immediately opposite Rion on the north shore of the narrow entrance to the gulf, remained silent yesterday.

In southern Albania other British units which landed 11 days ago continued to harass German communications leading to the small port of Sarande, supply base for the Corfu Island garrison. The enemy retained artillery positions along the Sarande-Delvine road.

Allied guns on several Dalmatian Islands continued shelling of the Yugoslav coast.

down "before, or not long after, the end of 1944."

He referred to the heroic 11-day struggle to hold a bridgehead across the Rhine at Arnhem, Holland, against superior forces.

"Everybody agrees," Davis told reporters yesterday, that the defeat of the heroic airborne division makes German collapse "more remote than when our report was put together" three weeks ago.

Forecasts that 5,000,000 workers would change jobs after V-Day in Europe, and that German collapse would bring dislocations in civilian life were made in the OWI report.

While a substantial part of the displaced workers will be absorbed in the task of re-converting industry, the survey said that "in most cases a war job will continue to be the first job for at least six months after V-E Day."

On rationing, the survey gave these as probable trends following V-E Day:

Butter and sugar—Probably will remain rationed.

Cheese, fats, milk and cream, and better grade meats—Short supplies for first six months, with rationing uncertain, but plentiful thereafter.

Processed foods, fresh fruits and vegetables—Adequate supplies without rationing.

Shoes—Rationing will continue; other clothing will be short of civilian need.

Gasoline—Very gradual easing over several-month period.

Fuel oil—Rationing next winter as well as this.

Passenger car tires—Rationing terminated within 3 months.

SECOND FRONT ON ASIATIC MAINLAND ASKED BY CHINA

CHUNGKING, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Chinese newspaper Ta Kung Pao appealed to Britain and the United States today to "open a second front on the Asiatic mainland."

The publication said this would be as important strategically as the opening of the second front in Europe, and added that "if the Allies win complete victory in the China war theater the south seas will be liberated and Japan will collapse."

RED IDEOLOGY DENIED BY FDR

Bricker Says AAA Should Be Abolished - - With Exceptions

(By the Associated Press)
President Roosevelt, saying his Republican opponents are spreading "fear propaganda" in stating his administration is plotting to give the Communists control of the government, disowned Communist support for his fourth term bid in a radio address last night.

The Democratic candidate emphasized that this "does not in the least interfere" with America's friendly relations with the Soviet Union, adding: "The kind of economy that suits the Russian people is their own affair."

"Reckless Words"

Other points he dealt with included:

1. Demobilization. He said "reckless words based on unauthorized sources" had been used by his opponents in saying the administration is ill prepared for demobilization. Such words have been used, he said, to "mislead and to weaken the morale" of soldiers and their families. He repeated that men in the armed services will be returned to civilian life "at the earliest possible moment consistent with our national safety."

2. Wartime controls. He said the American people "do not need, and no national administration would dare to ask them, to tolerate any indefinite continuance in peacetime of the controls essential to wartime."

Bricker Hits AAA
Gov. John W. Bricker was to go to Milwaukee today to speak before meetings of war workers and Republican party members in his campaign for the vice presidency.

Earlier in a press conference as he toured Iowa Bricker again asserted that the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, as it exists, should be abolished, but that the "constructive features" of farm legislation adopted since 1932, should be retained.

OSU SUNDIAL BANNED FROM NEWSSTANDS AGAIN

COLUMBUS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Ohio State University's humor magazine, the Sundial, is under a cloud again today.

The publication's self-styled "Filthy Issue," described by President Howard L. Bevis as "below the standards which the university ought to maintain," was ordered withdrawn from newsstands yesterday.

Co-editors Joseph M. Streb and William A. Jones, both of Dover, were requested to appear in the president's office.

cabins; and the others, sweltering in the hot tropical night, were on deck in little groups, awaiting the rising moon about two hours before midnight. It's quite a sight, that Pacific moon, rising out of the dark depths, showing a thin disc at first, then emerging all of a sudden like to paint the long slow swells with silvery brilliance.

I ascended the steel ladder and reached the deck; the superstructure of the transport, was dimly outlined against the star-filled sky. A night wind had sprung up and the ship was rolling slightly. Carefully I felt my way around the cargo stowed on deck, then followed the handrail until I came to the main hatch. The hum of conversation, broken now and then by laughter, told me that men were lying all around on their blankets.

It might be cooler, I thought, on the promenade deck, so I climbed another ladder and found a place along the rail, looking down on the deck where the men were congregated. The captain's little dog

BATTLE NOW RAGING IN FOREST SOUTH OF AACHEN AS GERMANS STOP AMERICANS AT BEGGENDORF

Fierce Fighting, Marked by Heavy Artillery Bombardments, Continues Around Metz and in Corner of Holland—Fog, Cold and Mud Slows Ground Forces But Allied Warplanes Back in Air To Blast Germany

(By the Associated Press)
The battle of the Siegfried line spread to south of Aachen today as doughboys launched a new attack through Hurtgen Forest. American tanks reached the edge of Geilenkirchen near the Ubach breach to the north.

Geilenkirchen is three miles north of Ubach and four miles inside Germany.

The new drive southeast of Aachen carried to within six miles of Duren.

The new attack was supported by hundreds of fighter bombers while light, medium and heavy artillery laid down a barrage on the Hurtgen Forest.

Then at 11:30 the doughboys jumped off in the "Battle of the Forest."

Yank Advance Stopped
First army soldiers, jumping off to the fifth day of attack in their wedge in the Siegfried line at Ubach, ran into a storm of heavy armored counterattacks today and had to fall back at two places.

The Germans, acknowledging their Siegfried defenses had been breached, threw their first sizeable armored forces into their assaults in fierce determination to block the road to the Rhine. The Americans had to fall back from Beggendorf, a mile east of Ubach and three-to-four miles inside Germany.

Under the pressure the Americans also were forced off the top of a pillbox ridge a mile and a half south of Ubach and a mile east of Herbach.

But they held on to the lower slopes, and Allied firepower, given clear skies for the first time since the wedge battle started, flew at the chance to deal devastating blows on enemy armor.

French Warfare
The Americans, who got off to the attack early today from Ubach, ran into new obstacles behind the Germans' main belt of steel and concrete.

The first, east of Ubach, was a system of "community diggings"—freshly turned trenches dug by civilians. These proved formidable as they had been constructed to permit mobile guns to run in to them, fire and change positions before Allied artillery could reply.

The second was southeast of Ubach, along a 500-yard stretch, where a "Battle of the Barracks" was taking place. Here in four-story concrete structures the Germans had concealed a veritable fortress about which they had clustered anti-tank guns, artillery and mortars.

The Americans had advanced to within rifle range and Allied planes were divebombing the buildings, while Sherman tanks and flight after flight of Allied planes met the enemy armored onslaughts head-on.

Breakthrough at Nancy
Admitting a breach had been made, today's German communique said: "The enemy started another attack from his breakthrough in an eastern and north-eastern direction. He was, however, checked by our own counter-

WATER SUPPLY FOR CITY ACUTE AS WELL FAILS

All Consumers Are Asked To Conserve Water Until Relief Comes

When one of the main wells at the plant of the Ohio Water Service Company north of this city, failed for the first time in its long years of service, Thursday evening, the acute condition of the city's source of water became apparent.

As a result O. D. Farquhar Friday issued a statement requesting all water consumers to conserve water in every possible way in an effort to tide over during the drought, and so a reserve supply may be maintained for fire fighting.

The well that failed was one of the "gravel" wells, 40 feet in depth and 22 feet in diameter, which is located just north of the old "lost bridge" grade near the north end of the company's grounds.

Three or four other surface wells of about the same depth or a little more, located on the southern part of the tract, have not yet failed, but have been pumped very low recently.

If these surface wells all fail, then the entire water supply of the city must come from the drilled wells, some of which are over 200 feet in depth, but most of which are under 120 feet.

The auxiliary plant, which is located east of the city and draws from a bed of water in a layer of sand and gravel, is still being pumped 24 hours daily, as well as the other wells at the main pumping plant.

Paint Creek ceased flowing in July and since that time the water table in Paint valley north of the city has been dropping steadily, and there is little water of consequence in the stream for miles north of the city.

Every householder is asked to make a real effort to conserve water until the emergency is over.

PROGRAM OUTLINED FOR 1945 BY FB

Officers Elected at Union Township Council

A three point program for 1945 was outlined when Union Township Farm Bureau Council I met with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays.

The three points are to urge more farmers to organize, to develop processing and marketing of farm products and to work with industry and labor on post-war problems.

Officers elected at the covered dish supper meeting were Edgar Coil, chairman; Ralph Hays, vice-chairman; Ethel Cavinec, secretary; Seneth Thompson, assistant secretary and Lowell Kaufman, discussion leader.

EMPLOYEES OF D. P. & L. PLAN STRIKE VOTE

Wage Increase Sought* in Appeal to NLRB

An Associated Press Dispatch from Cleveland states that utility workers at the Cleveland Electric Illuminating Co. and The Dayton Power and Light Co. voted today in a National Labor Relations Board election to determine whether a strike shall be called at the two companies to protest War Labor Board denial of a wage increase to the CEI employees.

The Washington C. H. branch of The Dayton Power and Light Co. it is understood, is included in the threatened strike.

Leonard Palmer, Cleveland local president of the CIO-Utility Workers Organizing Committee, indicated no strike would be called before October 8 should the workers authorize such action. He reported that meanwhile the union would appeal a WLB decision denying 1,770 CEI employees a seven-cent, hourly wage increase.

more Japanese freighters off the Philippines, Ambona and Ceram. In two days communications have announced U. S. planes and submarines accounted for 33 more Japanese ships, mostly small cargo vessels, but including four warships.

Presence of a freighter and a destroyer at Iwo in the Volcano Islands indicated Japan may be reinforcing that oft-bombed garrison 750 miles south of Tokyo. Both vessels were damaged.

Adm. Chester W. Nimitz reported that the invasion of Palau, east of the Philippines, has cost the lives of 11,043 Japanese and 1,022 Americans. U. S. casualties total 7,408, including 6,106 wounded and 280 missing. A Japanese communiqué claimed 18,000 U. S. casualties.

Tokyo conceded that bombers operating from captured Peleliu airbase were continuing heavy raids on other Palau islands.

Situation in China

Japanese forces which invaded maritime Fukien province have reached the northwestern suburbs of Fochow, the Chinese high command said tonight.

The Japanese, who have occupied the important port before, apparently expect to take it again without difficulty. The landings in Fukien were announced by Tokyo early this week, and were pictured as part of an attempt to forestall American landings from the Pacific which would "sever-our (Japanese) communications with the southern region."

Indian infantry jungle fighters were reported today to have cut across the top of the so-called "Chocolate Staircase" highway which leads up the mountains by many twists and turns to the Japanese northwestern Burma base of Tiddim.

At the same time the main 14th Army advance down the Manipur road was closing a nine-mile gap and crushing Japanese trapped by a roadblock four miles north of Tiddim.

Patton's infantry, sprayed with shellfire from German strong points on either flank, fought into their third day for Fort Driant whose "buttoned in" garrison battled from underground passages and trapdoor gunposts.

PIGEONS STOP CLOCK ON THE COURT HOUSE

Too many pigeons, falling into the chute of the striking cables and becoming wedged so the cables were locked, stopped the Court House clock last Sunday afternoon.

This discovery was made Thursday when caretaker Heber Roe investigated, removed the pigeons and started the clock once more.

The several days the clock was not in commission represents the longest period the clock has been idle in a great many years.

Battle for Metz

The Americans after a five-day fight were clinging to slim positions at the northwestern and southwestern corners of the fort near Dornot, five miles southwest of Metz.

The weather clear-up had not yet extended this far south. The battle swirled in low-drifting smoke, a murky haze and rain.

Overnight, however, a strong force of RAF Lancasters loosed block-busters on Saarbrücken, German refitting and assembling point 40 miles to the east, and left the town ablaze.

Another battle raged into its second day near Sivry, ten miles north of Nancy, with little change of ground. Farther to the south there was no news from the Seventh Army's push for the Vosges passes and the last ten miles to Belfort.

In the north the Canadians, behind sheets of fire from flame-throwers, burst across the Leopold Canal into the enemy pocket south of the Schelde and won a bridgehead north of Maldegem, 40 miles west of Antwerp and nine miles east of Brugge (Bruges).

The Canadians also wedged into Holland beyond Putte, 11 miles north of Antwerp. They were within six miles of cutting the only mainland road link for German gun crews and garrisons holding the islands of Zuid Beveland and Walcheren.

British troops closed within three miles south of industrial Tilburg and held their line three miles east of the road junction town of 'S-Hertogenbosch.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The fierce battle raging in the Aachen sector of the western front, where Uncle Sam's First Army has crashed through the crust of the powerful Siegfried line, is in that critical stage where a bit of good luck might tip the scales heavily towards the Allied side.

The Doughboys are continuing to widen the wedge they've driven into the West Wall, which is particularly strong in this strategic zone. Our tanks have been flung into the opening in an effort to bore through to the open plain which leads to the Rhenish city of Cologne—gateway to the great Ruhr industrial region and to Berlin beyond.

The Germans are going all-out in their defense, having flung everything they can spare into this important engagement. They fully recognize that should the Allies make a clean break-through, carrying them across the Rhine, it would just about complete the hangman's noose for Hitler's neck. For this reason we may be sure that General Eisenhower has his microscope on the Aachen battle, ready to pour in reserves and exploit any profitable looking opening.

However, despite the potentialities of this battle, we mustn't assume that Eisenhower necessarily has picked it for the supreme effort which ultimately will open up the route through which the Allied armies will pour into the Reich. He will develop it if it looks good, but otherwise will strike in some more promising spot.

Nazi Propaganda Minister Goebbels yesterday declared that the Allies have opened an all-out offensive against Germany. That undoubtedly is true in the sense that the preliminary attacks are under way throughout the length of the 460 mile Allied line. But Eisenhower hasn't yet turned loose all the vast striking power at his disposal. He is in the process of stabbing at numerous points in the Siegfried line in an effort to find the soft spots, or at least the most feasible places for development, whether they be soft or not. When he finds what he wants he will hurl a great concentration of force against it for a grand break-through. The Aachen sector might provide that spot if the present drive goes well.

The Allies are racing against time in an effort to smash across the Rhine before winter weather clamps down on them. Their task is far from easy because, as Secretary of War Stimson says, there's much hard fighting to be done yet in Europe. That's true not only in the western front but in the east and in Italy.

While the German forces are heavily outnumbered in western Europe, they've managed to scrape together enough troops so that, as Secretary Stimson puts it, they have "strength for initial defense of the West Wall." The Germans claim to have sixty divisions in western Europe, and I understand from informed quarters that while this figure probably is true on paper, the divisions have been so weakened by losses that their actual strength likely is nearer forty. This might mean anything up to half a million fighting men.

That isn't enough Germans to hold the line, though they may cause considerable delay. Propagandist Goebbels virtually admitted in his statement yesterday that the West Wall was doomed when he threatened that the Nazis within the Reich are prepared to wage guerrilla warfare to the death. They're ready for fighting on the home soil.

LEAVE TIN CANS AT

CURB EARLY SATURDAY

Every empty tin can in the city should be prepared and left at the curb for the collection which will be made all over town Saturday, starting at 8 A.M.

Efforts are being made to complete another carload of cans, and for this reason everyone who can do so is asked to have the cans ready, as the tin is one of the vital metals in war as well as for civilian use and the supply is low.

RE-EMPLOYMENT ASSURED FOR OHIO BELL MEN

11 in Service from This Area Will Find Jobs Waiting When They Come Back

When the 11 Ohio Bell Telephone Company employees who live in and near Washington C. H. come back home after the war, they will come with the assurance that their jobs will be waiting for them.

Fred Rost, commercial manager of the company here, said perhaps more than the 11 men on record here had left for service from other towns and that their employment records would be elsewhere.

From Washington C. H. went Charles Fults, Homer Davis, Francis Morgan, Paul Blake, Robert Moyer and Elwyn Aldrich. Jeffersonville employees now in service are William and Roger Wright, Robert Allen, Dale Roush and Leslie Hosler.

In a letter sent to nearly 1,800 Ohio Bell men and women in all parts of the world they were told:

"If for any reason you are one who has been concerned, perhaps worried, about whether or not your telephone employment will be available when you return, please accept this letter as my genuine assurance that we are looking forward to your assistance in helping us back home to take care of the large postwar telephone job that will await us."

It was described to the employees in service the following minimum objectives which the company has established in their behalf:

To return all employees to active service in the company to jobs at least equal in all important respects to those which the employees held when they entered the armed services. Work assignments will be given to those few who have suffered disabilities, and all possible assistance will be made available to establish their maximum earning capacity, including further advancement in the business.

To give to all returning employees the advantage of increases made in the company's basic wage and salary rates of pay.

To assist employees in realization of governmental rights and privileges to which they may be entitled as a result of armed service.

To be of the greatest possible help in a quick and satisfactory readjustment to civilian life.

SERIES OF SERMONS WILL START SUNDAY

Elijah Is Theme at First Baptist Church

A series of sermons centering around the prophet Elijah will begin at the First Baptist Church Sunday night, Rev. Harold B. Twining, pastor announced.

The first in the series will be titled "Airborne Supplies." Following subjects are "Fire from Heaven," "Running from Trouble" and "For Sale."

Next Sunday also will be the second in a six week Church Loyalty campaign current at the First Baptist Church. Last Sunday, attendance at the morning worship service was increased 42 percent; at the evening service, attendance rose 75 percent.

INQUIRIES RECEIVED FOR AMERICANS NEAR PARIS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—The American Diplomatic Mission in Paris is now prepared to receive inquiries about the whereabouts and welfare of American citizens believed to be in the Paris area.

The State Department, making the announcement today, said inquiries should be addressed to the State Department.

Hawaiians expressed a desire to become the 49th state of the United States as early as 1896.

JUST A FRIENDLY CHAT

God originally created man in His own image—perfect—and he would have been so today if it had not been for a thief known as Satan. Satan, formerly was an angel in heaven, he was a beautiful angel and knowing that he was beautiful he became proud, he wasn't satisfied with just being an angel—he wanted to be a God. So he was cast out of heaven by God. Then Satan, seeing that everything was made good and perfect by God, set about to upset the set-up. Eve being the weaker of the two vessels, Satan chose to deceive her, and stole Adam's faith in God through her, and got by with it. Satan was the first thief in this world. A man without faith is incomplete, imperfect. Because without faith man is dead in sin, and alienated from the life that is in God, and is on the way to eternal perdition, unless he is born again. Physical life begins with a birth. Spiritual life likewise begins with a birth. We become members of the human family by birth. We become members of the family of God by a birth—by being "BORN AGAIN." There is no other way to get into the human family except by birth, and there is no other way to get into God's family except by the New Birth. Neither education, nor cultivation, nor reformation—or "turning over a new leaf," will accomplish this. What is needed is not a new "leaf"—but a new "LIFE." By physical birth we become partakers of the human nature, by being BORN AGAIN we become "partakers of the Divine nature." 2 Pet. 1:4. A Christian is a product of a Divine "Becoming." Jas. 1:18. The second birth is not an IMPROVEMENT of the old nature, as some seem to think, it is the IMPARTING of a NEW nature—entirely NEW. The old nature is hopeless, corrupt and incapable of ever being made fit for His presence. Rom. 3:9-20. The new birth requires a CREATIVE ACT of the Holy Spirit. "If any man be in Christ he is a NEW CREATURE." (CREATION) 2 Cor. 5:17. Eph. 2:10. The unanimous testimony of the word of God is that when one is BORN AGAIN the Lord Jesus Christ comes in and becomes the Life of that one. "Christ—OUR LIFE." Col. 3:4. Then man's first birth is a failure, spiritually speaking. "Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God—ye must be born again." John 3:3-7. Born again as definitely as we were in our first. Born again through faith in the Lord Jesus Christ. "Without faith it is impossible to please God." Heb. 11:6. If you are born again through faith you are then accepted into God's family and have all the rights and privileges of a Son of God. Through this new birth you forsake your old habits of sin and live to obey and please God, and Christ who shed the precious blood on the cross for you. When you become a born again one, a new power is implanted in you. This power is the Holy Spirit, who teaches you how to walk and talk, how to pray and live so that your life will be pleasing to God. You then have the hope of Heaven, which is eternal life in the presence of God forever and forever.

The Truth of Pearl Harbor

One of the most significant and unusual advertisements which ever has appeared in the Record-Herald will be found in today's issue of this newspaper on page five entitled "The Truth of Pearl Harbor."

This advertisement is paid for and sponsored by Fred F. Russell, a well-known citizen of Washington C. H. It is in the form of an editorial taken from the Chicago Daily Tribune of recent date which gave credit to Basil Brewer, publisher of the New Bedford, (Mass.) Standard Times.

The editorial used in this advertisement is indicated as a truly factual account of the present national administration's weaknesses and shilly-shally attitude with reference to our armed forces at Pearl Harbor which led to the terrible tragedy in which thousands of American lives were lost and which remains as probably the blackest page in all the military history of our nation.

Regardless of anyone's political belief or thinking, it should be read carefully by all with an idea of knowing some of the things regarding this calamity which some of our national leaders would be glad to have the people forget, especially during this present national political campaign.

French Traitor

Pierre Laval, France's best known traitor, is not the only one of importance. Joseph Darnand has lately been figuring in the news as head of the Vichy secret police. In this office he has acted as a typical Gestapo chief. He has dismissed patriotic local officials, jailed some, and shot others. With France practically reconquered, there is no safe place for him in his native land and he is now presumably in Germany.

His earlier career makes this latest development no surprise. For a time he helped the royalist party of the recently arrested Charles Maurras. His chief fame, however, came to him as an organizer of the Cagoulauds, or Hooded Men, a masked order like the Ku Klux Klan, reactionary and terroristic. The downfall of the French Republic was largely due to the unrest fomented by organizations like the Cagoulauds.

Treason has paid Darnand well till lately. Those days are now over, and Darnand's next public appearance is likely to be before a firing squad.

A Hint to All of Us

A Kansas judge, as a memorial to his son, who was killed in action in 1942, writes a "home town letter" every so often which he sends to 175 men the war has taken away from the town.

In one of these letters the judge said: "When you do return we hope that you will find in all of us the same sort of folks that you had learned to tolerate, and that from that time forward, we will walk together down the pathways of our remaining years happy in the enjoyment of the benefits which have been preserved for all of us and which have been purchased for us during these awful days, by all of you."

Somewhat it is hard to imagine that service men receiving letters like that from a civilian will be as likely to be bitter toward the folks back home as the ones who

Ever See a Dog Fish in a Tyke Spot?

FRESNO LAKE, Mont.—(AP)—John Bradley weighs in with this fish yarn: "We were out fishing the other day and they weren't biting, so I got interested in a little tyke, dangling a bamboo rod over the side of a boat. I watched him lose interest, eat a sandwich, nod off to sleep. Then, shortly I saw his rod zig-zagging crazily and my Springer spaniel, 'Duke' splashed in pursuit. Duke caught the rod in his mouth, played the fish out and swam ashore with a hooked, three-and-a-half pound rainbow trout. Who got the fish—well, who caught it?"

1. What is meant by splitting an infinitive?
2. What is the meaning of the word "finical"?

Words of Wisdom

He who seldom speaks, and with one calm, well-timed word can strike dumb the loquacious, is a genius or a hero.—Lavater.

Hints on Etiquette

If you are not sure how to reply when you are introduced to a person, say "How do you do?" That is always correct. Simple, isn't it?

Today's Horoscope

A birthday today means that you are energetic and competent, and have considerable mechanical ability. You enter into things wholeheartedly, and go through your best efforts. You are respected and admired by all who know you. If you marry young you will be happy and have an ideal married life. Broadly speaking, a happy, fortunate year is foreseen for you. Seek to expand business and friendships, but avoid extravagance and unduly heavy commitments. A child born today will have the intellectual faculties well developed and be very original, clairvoyant, philosophical, refined, ambitious and lucky.

One-Minute Test Answers

1. The separation of "to" from its verb by an intervening word, such as, "to hurriedly return."
2. Unduly particular.

get no such understanding, grateful letters—but think of civilians as so many profiteers who are mopping up while the service men fight the war.

There is much concern these days over the ever-widening breach between service men and civilians. Yet the average civilian isn't doing much to correct the situation.

If more of us, like the Kansas judge, would go out of our way to show the service men overseas that the folks back home are the same folks they left when they went to war, that they are deeply grateful for what their men in uniform have done for them, and that they are anxious for the men to get back—the bitterness of servicemen would be lessened.

But the average soldier hears more of strikes and high wages and of reckless civilian spending than he hears of gratitude and appreciation. The gratitude and appreciation are deep in the heart of the majority of civilians—but we ought to go out of our way more often to reveal the fact.

Traffic Troubles

Jay-walkers and light-crashers may not have it so easy from now on. Many cities are tightening up their traffic rules, and cracking down on pedestrians who saunter across the street with the nonchalance of a cow in a pasture. It is more necessary than usual to keep traffic in order as the days shorten. Darkness comes earlier and streets are wetter, and present-day tires are more slippery than they used to be.

Brakes need to be in better condition, and so do drivers. So, too, do driving laws.

Diet and Health

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M.D.

"REMEMBER that there is a patient who has the disease as well as a disease which has the patient. It is just as important to treat one as the other."

In no department of medical practice is this standard bit of medical wisdom more constantly applicable than in the management of the patient with ulcer of the stomach or ulcer of the duodenum.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

A chronic dyspepsia may originate from functional or organic causes. The functional cases are those in which it is impossible to demonstrate any actual disease of the tissues of the stomach or the rest of the digestive system. They are often called nervous dyspepsia, but a better name would be character dyspepsia. "My disposition depends on you and my indignation depends on my disposition" is the theme song of the reflex dyspeptic.

Organic Dyspepsia

Ulcer and gallstones are far and away the commonest causes of the organic type of dyspepsia, accounting for 80 per cent of cases. Ulcer of the stomach is, however, a curious combination of organic disease and personality type. We do not know the cause of ulcer, but we know it is associated with an increased flow of the normal secretion of the stomach—which contains a good deal of hydrochloric acid, which is capable of eating off the surface of an ulcer that has started to heal. We know that the secretion of hydrochloric acid is stimulated by many emotional experiences—such as worry, fits of temper, grief, anger, etc. In the management of an ulcer patient it is therefore just as important to keep the tenor of his life calm as it is to maintain control of his diet and his neutralizing medication. Which brings us back to the statement with which we headed this article.

Dr. Walter Alvarez, of the Mayo Clinic, has reported an interesting series of patients in the last "Journal of the American Medical Association," which illustrate the effect of the emotions on causing relapses of stomach ulcers:

"A man discovered one day that the man who for 20 years had been his brother-in-law, his closest friend and his business partner had been falsifying the books in order to steal from him. All that night he lay awake in great mental distress, and next day he had a big stomach hemorrhage.

"A woman who adored her peppery little daughter-in-law one day inadvertently offended her and brought down on her head a storm of abuse which nearly killed her. Next day a long-healed ulcer flared up and perforated.

"A woman who heard that her soldier husband had just been killed at the front promptly had a hemorrhage. Another man, when a strike in his factory distressed him terribly found himself incapacitated by the recurrence of a pain from an ulcer."

These experiences point up Dr. Alvarez's moral.

"It is suggested that when a patient who has had an ulcer goes through an emotional crisis he should immediately start taking food every hour or two. He shouldn't wait for the expected flare-up or hemorrhage or perforation. The extra feedings are probably most needed between the hours of 10 p. m. and 3 a. m.

CHAPTER THIRTY-EIGHT

DWIGHT RAYNOR held Anne tight. "It means my life to have you," he told her. "What has come over you? You used to love me. As for that young boy you introduced me to at the hotel in Washington, I know you said that because you were hurt. I see it all now. You thought I'd jilted you to marry money. You wanted to make me feel you didn't care and were gayly marrying yourself. You took me in for a while, but now it's so clear. Look straight into my eyes and try to deny it."

"I can't deny it."

He kissed her and released her gently. "Now I don't have to worry about that. That dull boy in a misfit suit, with a wrong size collar and his shoes unshined, isn't your kind of a man. He looked as if you had picked him up somewhere to help him look for a job. Have I sized him up wrong?"

She sat, hands limp in her lap, staring out at the dark street and across it past the church where the moonlight was silvery on the broad reach of the river. It was half a minute before she answered, so softly he could hardly hear her.

"Yes. You sized him up right."

"I thought so. I'd be much more inclined to be worried about this Russell Smith. I noticed the way he looked at you. I suspect he is in love with you."

She forced herself to face him. "Russell has been engaged to Laura for five years."

He chuckled. "That's it. Then you came along and got Russell fussed."

"I don't think he's the kind of man who gets fussed. He's a lawyer."

He patted her hand. "All men get fussed. Don't let anybody tell you different. Every man has a weak spot. Don't smile. I have mine, too. The fact that I'm sitting here quietly proves it. I turned down Newport to come here."

"Lois Ryan?"

"No." He laughed. "If you're going to tease me about Lois, I shall retort what about Russell. I'm quite sure he must have tried to make love to you. No man could resist."

"He's engaged to Laura."

"So you said before, sweetheart. I almost think you're stressing it too much, but no matter. Laura's a charming girl. Lots of vivacity—and brains, too. She's the kind of girl who could get along anywhere, if she made up her mind. A very sensible girl."

Anne stood up, smiling, and repeated his words. "I almost think you're stressing it too much—but no matter."

He jumped up and took her arm. "Let's go for a little walk, at least. I don't suppose Talbot has any night life."

"We could eat ice cream." She tried to say it as lightly as possible.

"Good. Ice cream would be nice. It's a long time since we sat on stools and drank sodas. I remember you dared me to. I think you wanted to see if I was human."

"Are you?"

He leaped down the steps with her. "You'll see. I'll have whatever has the most whipped cream and sauce and nuts on it. I want to see what has been the attraction that kept you down here, hiding away from me."

She was glad of his change in mood. She didn't want him to be serious. After a sundae at Johnson's store, she would say she was tired and go to her room. She could not afford to make any decisions now. She had been frightened when he spoke of not going through with the operation, though she had tried not to show it. He must stay and do it. It was her job to keep him at any cost.

So she joked with him about New York as they walked down the street. As they went up the two steps into the store someone was coming out and almost bumped into them. She gasped. It was Dan. While she stood helpless, Dwight caught his hand and shook it gayly.

"Well, we meet again. What a surprise."

Anne managed to speak. "You remember Dan?"

"Of course I do. How could I ever forget him? Come, have something to eat or drink. I insist."

He caught Dan's arm and led him and Anne back into the store. The counter was crowded. Everyone stopped to stare at them. Everyone knew a famous doctor had come and he was a great friend of Anne Wilson, who hadn't seemed to have any friends at all. Anne could feel the questions in their eyes. She was glad when they sat in a booth and were at least partially sheltered from the open store. After the first glance at Dan's face she had avoided his eyes.

Dwight looked like a man from another world, tall and elegantly tailored. His eyes were bright, as they were when he was amused. He said to Dan cordially:

"This is a real surprise. Do you live here?"

"I was born here," Dan said lamely.

Anne all at once felt cool and sure of herself. "Dan is Russell's brother."

Dwight was surprised. "Oh, I met Russell Smith tonight. You don't look so much like him. So that's how you know Anne. Where did you both disappear to that day in Washington?"

Dan smiled a little. "Anne did tease you, didn't she?"

"Something more than that. But we've made up." He rubbed his immaculate hands together. "What shall we have? We must celebrate. It should be champagne, of course, but maybe that wouldn't fit in."

Dan's smile continued. "It was good of you to come all the way down here."

The doctor looked at him keenly. "I'd go to the ends of the earth if Anne called me. If you've ever been in love, you know what I mean."

"Yes, I know. It—it makes you do strange things."

PACIFIC DIARY: New Point of View

By LARRY ADLER

Internationally Known Harmonica Expert

SOMEWHERE IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC—This base is very much like Finchhafen. The same perpetual rain, the same mud.

Jack Benny and I are living in the general's quarters except there isn't a general.

If there was one here, this is where he'd be. It's a thatched roof bungalow, looking out on the bay. Our latrine is about 200 yards away.

Our showers and wash basin are about half that distance.

There are gravel walks and it is wise to stick close to them unless you like finding yourself up to the hips in mud. At night, even with a flashlight those walks are not easy to follow, as the cuffs of my trousers will testify.

Actually the C. O. here is no general, but a colonel and it is only his third day as commander. Just to show you how rumors start, my very first night here a colonel came to my quarters and asked was it true that Jack Benny was miffed because the base C. O. hadn't met him at the plane. This really made me mad.

Benny wouldn't give a hoot if nobody met us, just so there was a car to take us to our quarters. I hope I convinced the colonel.

Lois Elliman, former night club singer from New York, is here as a Red Cross worker. She doesn't get a chance to do so much singing for the boys which is a pity, but she's an awfully nice person to have around. I asked her if she didn't mind tramping around in the mud, never getting a hot bath, and other amenities.

"I wouldn't say that I liked that part of it," she said, "but just the same, I don't want to go back until it's over. And when I do get back, I'm going to be a different person."

"A lot of people who used to be quite important to me will seem useless now. On the other hand, many people who I never bothered to notice will become very important, indeed."

I know what she meant. Down here, in any overseas base, you learn very quickly to spot a phoney. And the lesson well learned will be applied back home.

Just Volunteers

A colored soldier asked me this morning if it were true that we're over here for 69 weeks. I told him that Jack had his radio program in the autumn and that others among us had things to do back home. "This is a volunteer unit," I told him, "and to stay out that long we'd have to be millionaires."

He was anxious to break into the pictures, his experience in watching them have convinced him that there was an awful lot of mediocrity floating about. I tried to give him an idea of what it means to try breaking into pictures.

Then he told me about a colored singer in his outfit who is very good. "But Special Service hasn't picked him up yet—don't know why." I'm going to get Jack to hear the lad. Maybe we can use him with us while we're on the base.

We're getting a break after all—we've been promised a three-day rest in Sydney, Australia, after leaving here. The only problem will be transportation. All available planes are carrying supplies to new fronts. That suits us fine.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINNETT

(The second of four articles on presidential press conferences.)

WASHINGTON—It is a safe statement that no chief executive of any nation, large or small, has been on such intimate terms with the workaday news representatives as President Roosevelt.

In the 11 years and seven months that he has been in office, a conservative estimate is that the regular bi-weekly news conferences alone total more than 800.

Add this to the campaign, "inspection," vacation and conference trips, on which the President has been in almost daily contact with members of the press and radio corps, and you begin to realize what this presidential relationship with them means.

What's more, until the war, the President regularly attended the banquets of the Gridiron Club, the White House Correspondents' Association and the National Press Club.

Undoubtedly he knows intimately, or by face, name or reputation, more newspaper and radio men and women than any other public official. In spite of this, he has a reputation for having a generally antagonistic press.

President Roosevelt makes no bones of the fact that he uses the press and radio as a valuable means to an end—that of keeping in constant touch with the public. Let weeks slip by when the President skip news conferences for reasons of absence, illness or military secrecy; or weeks when he brushes them off without giving out anything that you can sink your teeth into, and invariably you hear that "the President is deserting the public."

There's times when this may have been true. In recent months political advisers have been pleading with him to get back on the political beam. They want more political speeches and fewer "inspection tours."

It's easy enough to see the President grinning at this criticism. His contacts with the press and radio are those of a loving but sometimes irascible wife with an occasionally errant spouse.

Only on rare occasions does he permit himself to be quoted directly, as he does in a speech. Most of the time, he plays his conference for what it's worth. When I first came to Washington I stood open-mouthed while the President told reporters just exactly how a story should be written. It was only after I discovered that nobody wrote it that way, anyway, and that the President was only trying to get over an emphatic point, that I ceased to gape.

I have seen the President angry, irritated, amused, genial, weary, hearty, and downright ornery at news conferences; but I have never seen him skip one unless his physician demanded it or other conditions made it impossible.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"It sounds almost like a miracle, Judge... how did we ever do it?"

"American industry did it, Sally. When the Japs conquered the chief natural rubber producing centers of the world they thought they had dealt a death blow to our war effort. But, in less than two years, we are producing enough synthetic rubber in this country to supply all our military and essential civilian requirements."

"Our rubber experts knew how to make it but the most practical process at the time required huge amounts of industrial alcohol... far beyond the already overtaxed capacity of our industrial alcohol plants. So, overnight, our country's beverage distillers stopped making whiskey and produced hundreds of millions of gallons of the vitally needed alcohol."

"As a matter of fact, Sally, a high government official said recently '...synthetic rubber is from 6 to 9 months ahead of where it could have been if alcohol had not been available for butadiene production.'"

"We were really fortunate, weren't we, Judge, to have a beverage distilling industry in existence... able to help perform this great wartime miracle!"

Margaret Hickey
New Head of
National BPWC

Miss Margaret A. Hickey of St. Louis, Missouri, who has for three years served the National Federation of Professional and Business Women's Club, is now president, having succeeded Dr. Minnie L. Maffett at the biennial election held last July at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, Mrs. Vernice Deafner said today in commenting on the observance of National Business Women's Week here, October eighth to the fourteenth.

Miss Hickey is chairman of the Women's Committee of the War Manpower Commission, a task which has entailed the mobilization of 5,000,000 women for war production. To this office she brought her wide experience as a consultant for employers and government agencies in the planning and coordination of personnel programs and the formation and direction of personnel policy. A school which she directs in St. Louis trains secretaries, administrative assistants and future executives.

From the Kansas City University School of Law she received a degree in law and was admitted to the bar. But her interest centered more on the job problems of women and she returned to the personnel field and became widely known as an employment specialist in the training of women.

She is a member of the board of the Washington University, YMCA, the Women's Bar Association, the National Association of Women Lawyers, the St. Louis Sororist Club and is on the Public Affairs and Legislation Committee of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce.

Fall Theme Used
In Decorations

Forty-five assembled at the Country Club, Thursday afternoon, for the fortnightly luncheon-bridge with Mrs. Frank S. Jackson as hostess chairman for the affair. The club was decorated with numerous bowls and floor stands of fall garden flowers in many hues and shades, which were greatly admired by the guests. Bowls of the flowers were used as table centerpieces, and one bowl of flowers in particular, a gorgeous silver one, was commented on for its unusual and lovely beauty.

Mrs. Jackson and her committee, Mrs. Otis Core, Miss Ruth Sexton and Mrs. Francis Haines received their guests. Included with the members was Mrs. H. D. Shankle, a new member of the Country Club.

The guests found their places at the small tables where a most delicious and tempting chicken pie luncheon was served. Place-cards were of a fall theme, being embossed with gay autumn leaves and other scenes typical of this season of the year.

The remainder of the afternoon was spent in chatting during the bridge game and when the scores were tallied first prize was awarded to Mrs. Ormond Dewey and second to Mrs. Margaret Edge. For the third prize, the group bingoed and the prize was awarded to Mrs. Estelle Hagerty.

Thirty-six members and one guest, Mrs. Wayne Vannorsdall, assembled at the Jeffersonville Methodist Church, for the October meeting of the Womens' Society of Christian Service.

Mrs. Lillie Rings, president, appointed the visiting committee for the month. Those on the committee are Miss Minnie Mowery, Mrs. Eva Owens and Mrs. Frank Locke. This followed the secretary's report by Mrs. Millie Stuckey and the treasurer's report by Mrs. Glenna Robinson.

Plans were made for the election dinner which will be served at the church, November seventh.

Miss Icy Allen then took charge of the program which she opened with singing, gospel and prayer. The theme of the program was "The First Medical Missionary to India, Dr. Clara Swain," which told how Dr. Swain established the first hospital for women in India. A short sketch of old songs was given, after which members enjoyed singing the familiar numbers. At the close of the program a duet by Mrs. E. R. Rector and Mrs. Wayne Vannorsdall, with Mrs. Vannorsdall at the piano, was heard.

Refreshments were served in the dining room where the social hour was held.

REHABILITATION OF VETERANS IS PROVIDED FOR

No Limit to Money Uncle Sam Will Spend in Helping Wounded Men

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON Oct. 6.—(P)—There is no limit on the money the government will spend to educate or train a disabled veteran so he can make a living. Uncle Sam pays all his educational or training expenses, no matter how much, for a maximum of four years.

For example: an ex-marine, almost blind, is taking a two-year pre-law course in a university. Then he will go on for two more years to take his law degree.

The government not only foots all his school bills but also pays a person 60 cents an hour to read to him. In addition, he receives a pension.

This program for disabled veterans is called vocational training. They can go to a university, technical school, shop, laboratory or any place where they can learn something with which to hold a job.

This is how the program, operated by the Veterans' Administration works:

The veteran must have served between Sept. 16, 1940 and the end of the war, been honorably discharged, and have a pensionable disability due to, or aggravated by, his military service.

Disability ranges from ailments like bronchitis and bad hearts to amputations and blindness.

The program ends 6 years after the war. The disabled veteran can ask for the training any time up until then.

During his period of schooling or training—no matter how small his pension is—he receives no less than $92 a month if single, $103.50 if married, $5.75 monthly for each dependent child, and $11.50 for each dependent parent.

He will continue to get that much for the first two months after he has finished school and found employment.

(This vocational training program, limited to disabled veterans, is not to be confused with the general education and training program which almost any veteran can get.)

A veterans administration man is at almost all the army and navy hospitals so that a veteran, at the moment of his discharge, can immediately file a claim for disability.

His military and medical records then are sent to one of eight special area offices. In each office is a board composed of a lawyer, doctor and occupation specialist.

This board decides three things: The amount of pension the veteran should get, the degree of his disability, and whether that disability is really a vocational handicap.

If it is considered a handicap, at the time he is notified about the amount of pension to be allowed him he is sent an application with which he can ask for vocational rehabilitation, a fancy word for vocational training or schooling.

If he wants the rehabilitation, he files the application with the nearest veterans administration regional office. Then he confers with vocational counselors.

The counselors help the veteran choose his line of study but a decision is made only with his agreement. Once the course is decided upon, the veteran is turned over to a training officer who draws up an individual training program to meet the veteran's needs.

NWF CHAIRMEN ARE TO MEET MONDAY NIGHT

Organization To Be Complete For Take-off Dinner October 16

Organization for the National War Fund drive will be worked out to a fine point Monday at 8 P. M. in the common-pleas court room when committee chairmen, ward chairmen and township chairmen will meet, Walter Rettig, head of the campaign here, said today.

Specifically, organization of the take-off dinner meeting October 16 will be discussed, Rettig said. That meeting will mark the beginning of the house-to-house canvass.

Already special gifts and other separate committees are on the job and while reports are that these men are doing a good job, no check-up of contributions has been made yet, Rettig said.

Carroll Halliday, special gifts; Mac Dews, retail; Emmett Passmore, industries; Fred Rost and Gilbert Crouse, chains and utilities, and W. J. Hilty, clubs and organizations, are special committee chairmen already at work.

Monday night a check will be made to find out whether each chairman has enough workers to conduct a thorough canvass. Cards already have been mailed to solicitors by ward chairmen.

MARSHALL GRANGE HAS INSPECTION

Many Features Included on Lecture Program

Marshall Grange combined an inspection with a many-faceted literary program when it met Thursday night at the Grange Hall.

The Grange demonstrated second degree ritual for Deputy Loren Hynes, the inspecting officer. At the same time it was announced that Pomona Grange would meet in the Marshall Hall at Jeffersonville Thursday. State Master and Mrs. Joseph Fichter are to be present for the meeting, a feature of which will be presenting jewels to Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nisley for 13 years of service as county deputy and county juvenile matron.

Chester Janes discussed planting and cultivation in pioneer days as one feature of the lecture hour. Mrs. John Sheeley read a paper on rehabilitation and education of veterans. Other parts were a solo by Max Morrow with accompaniment by Mrs. Morrow; poems, "Hoss Sense," by Mrs. S. T. Simpson; "Those Good Old Days," Edward Whiteside, and "Uncle Dan and Aunt Sarah Go to the Fair," by Mrs. W. E. Roberts.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hiser read the ten commandments for married happiness at the close of the meeting. Mrs. Max Morrow took first place in the apple romance contest.

POLICE HAVE HEADACHE
HILLSBORO — Police are kept so busy with double parkers who tie up traffic Saturday nights, that they see no solution to the problem. They have not tried to limit parking regulations, however.

The American Red Cross operated under a charter granted by Congress in 1905.

County Courts

SUES FOR DIVORCE

Alberta Faye Adams, in a petition filed in Common Pleas Court Friday, asks divorce from John Burton Adams, to whom she was married here Sept. 14, 1942. Neglect of duty is charged. Possession of certain household goods, custody of their child and alimony for support of child is asked. Defendant is in the Air Corps stationed in Florida. Reed M. Winegardner represents the plaintiff.

GERALD CARTWRIGHT NOT ARRESTED HERE

In Thursday's Record-Herald a story was carried to the effect that Gerald Cartwright of this city, had been arrested and held to the grand jury in Justice Worrell's court, for assault with intent to rape, and that Cartwright had been picked up by the police after the first alleged offense had been released.

The man arrested was Gerald Cartwright, a twin brother of Gerald Cartwright.

The records of Justice Worrell showed the name to be Gerald, but it should have been Jerald. Gerald is a well known painter in the city and was in no way involved in the above mentioned cases.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC

THE WATER SITUATION

We have known for several days that the water situation was going from bad to worse. We have learned about the failure of dozens of privately owned wells, both shallow and deep wells, and we wondered when our turn would come. It came last night when we pumped a well dry and this morning we realize the water situation is acute.

We mentioned our reserve supply previously; the demand recently has forced us to use part of this reserve and consequently we are thinking about fires. Our plea is that you do everything possible to guard against a fire. A little one would be bad enough and we don't want to even think about a big one.

We wish to again mention leaks, please call our office if you even think you know about a water line break. We truly appreciate your co-operation which has been all we could ask for.

Our big effort will be to take care of the City of Washington first.

Give It A CHANCE

To Help Feel BETTER

You can help your bowels to act properly by making it a habit to move them at regular times every day. If an occasional attack of bowel sluggishness causes headache or temporary minor intestinal distress, give TONJON Nos. 1 or 2 a chance to remove the waste matter accumulated in the bowels. Then see for yourself how much better you will feel.

SOLDIER VOTE APPLICATIONS NOW TOTAL 678

275 Voted Ballots Have Already Been Returned To Board Here

So far 678 applications for soldier ballots have been made with the Fayette County Board of Elections, and 275 voted ballots have been returned to the board here.

It is expected that during the remainder of the interval until November 2 many voted ballots will be received each day.

Beginning October 8, it is stated, voters who are not soldiers, but who cannot be here to vote at the November election, can obtain their absent voters' ballots and cast their votes.

Voting by absent voters can continue until November 2. It is also stated that sick and disabled voters can vote by having ballots brought to them, from October 23 to November 2.

R. M. Winegardner, chairman of the Fayette County Democratic Executive Committee, said Friday that so far the secretary of state has failed to rule on his request that 10 applications for soldiers' votes be placed in the hands of each precinct committeeman, and that he expects to take further action if necessary to obtain the ruling before it is too late to permit soldiers to vote.

JEFFERSONVILLE BOY SCOUTS TO RECEIVE AWARDS

Court of Awards Will Be Held Monday Night in Troop's Own Room

Five Jeffersonville Boy Scouts, members of Troop 67 of which Clark Robinson is leader, Monday night will receive merit badges and advancements in rank, it was announced today.

The ceremony will be in the Boy Scout Troop's own room. Advancements will include Robert Bowen to second class; LeRoy Stultz, Donald McCoy and David Baughn, first class; and Lee Draper, Jr., life.

Draper, who has only one more step to go before he reaches the peak of scouting—the Eagle rank—also will receive the lion's share of the merit badges. His list includes badges for athletics, poultry keeping, first aid, swimming, hog and pork production and pioneering.

David Baughn will get badges for poultry keeping and hog and pork production. LeRoy Stultz has earned the swimming badge.

X L. Garrison, Boy Scout Field executive here, will be present at the Monday night court of awards.

RAINFALL IN CITY REACHES .20 INCH

Showers over Thursday resulted in .20 of an inch of rain being recorded over this area, the precipitation, coming on top of the rains last week, being of great benefit to the newly sown wheat and to pasture lands.

Peak temperatures for Thursday was 79 and at 8 A. M. Friday the reading was 70, which is unusually high.
